Wesleyan—growing, expanding, changing but above all continuously moving towards the completion of one more school year. But more was involved than just another year, for it was our year. A year filled with study, aetivity, and reflection. Watching a play, parade or game, our lives were not mueh affected. The total, however, added up to a year which changed us all. For some this was a totally new experience; for others it was a familiar one; for all it demanded living as fast and completely as possible. Whether we were occupied with academics, activities or simply with the people around us, one thing stood out—we were moving to build our minds, talents, and lives as people at Wesleyan. As we learned and changed, we influenced those around us, and we learned and changed together to form one moving body which was Wesleyan for one year —1966-67.

To keep pace with a dynamic student body, the physical plant of Wesleyan is also in the process of movement and development. Throughout the year, we have witnessed the destruction of old buildings as new ones have risen to take their places. New dorms and a new library will provide future meeting and studying places for Wesleyan students. Wesleyan is moving towards a new image in a new decade.

Compared to the last minute psyche-up sessions, float preparation, and general madness of Homecoming, the Phoenix offers a contemplative atmosphere and a chance to "light up," relax, and enjoy the entertainment.

College is more than classes, it includes the development of one's aesthetic values.

With the presence of mud, machines, and workmen, the beauty of Wesleyan was temporarily diminished. But in the name of progress all things are cheerfully borne.

Campus scenes offer diversity and a common bond.

As man searches to find truth about another, he sees a little deeper into himself.

A sun sets leaving silhouettes black and stark. Darkness seeps into the sky—a night to be alone. Not a lonely time but a chance to notice the light's glaze on a rain soaked street; a chance to observe the alienation of man.

ACTIVITIES

What's been going on here?

And here?

And here?

A burnt-out float, a windy October morning, a brisk march and the crowning of a queen—for students and alumni alike—a week-end to remember.

Beauty Reigns

The crowning of the 1966 Homecoming Queen, Janice Young of Sigma Kappa, in the Dug Out officially started the Homecoming activities. The theme "What's Been Going On Here?" was a special tribute to the new library which is being completed, and each dorm dec or float was a page from a novel. Friday night's events included the rope pull, campus beast, the chariot race, a pep rally, a combo in the Dug Out, and the opening night of the Homecoming play, "Ballad of the Sad Cafe." Saturday morning's parade again sparked everyone's enthusiasm in spite of the biting wind. Before the football game with Carroll College, Robert Morrow, football coach at IWU from 1947-1950, and Don Larson, former "most valuable player" at IWU were honored at a Reunion Luncheon for alumni. Despite the disappointment of losing the game, the activities continued with the dedications of Munsell Hall, Memorial Center Student Annex, and the new Tau Kappa Epsilon house. Saturday night couples danced to the music of Lenny King's band. Joan Cutter King, a former Wesleyan Homecoming Queen, was soloist. After the queen and her court were presented, trophies were given to Sigs and KD's for the best float and to Pfeiffer and Franklin for the best dorm decs. The Panhellenic Sweepstakes trophy was awarded to the Kappas and the Sigs won the Inter-Fraternity Council Sweepstakes Keg for two years running.

Mom Comes to Wesleyan . . .

A Garden Party for Mother" was the theme for the Mother's Day festivities. On May 1, Wesleyan students welcomed their mothers to a day set aside in their honor.

Following registration a banquet was served to all students and their families in the Main Lounge of the Student Center. The mothers were welcomed by President Bertholf, Dean Meierhofer, and Barb Janssen, chairman of Mother's Day. Delta Omicron and Sigma Alpha Iota provided musical entertainment during dinner.

The afternoon's program, which was held on the lawn of McPherson, was highlighted by musical selections by Phi Mu Alpha and the Apollo Quartet, and a dance concert by Orchesis. The day was concluded with a general reception on the library lawn and individual spreads and open houses at the residence halls and Greek houses.

And Dad, Too

Father was truly "king for a day" at Illinois Wesleyan on November 5. Dads began arriving early Saturday morning to register at the Memorial Center for the day's activities. At 10:00 in the morning, parents participated in "Meet the Professor," an activity designed to introduce several of the faculty. Then the fathers migrated to the fieldhouse for the annual Dad's Association Barbeque. During halftime at the Wesleyan-Carthage football game, there was a special musical tribute to the fathers and the presentation of the fathers of the football players. After the game, parents and the faculty mixed at a coffee hour. The day ended with a jazz combo given by the men of Phi Mu Alpha. This special day of "The Wonderful World of Dad" planned by chairman Arlyn Freytag and her committee was an eventful day for students and dads alike.

Football fathers were honored by an introduction to the fans at the Dad's Day football game.

Four Years Ahead. . .

For many freshmen, their first introduction to college life came during one of the four summer orientation sessions. At this time, students were familiarized with university policies, requirements, and social life.

New Student Week was in many respects merely a continuation of summer orientation, for it involved more testing and discussions. In addition students heard student leaders speak on campus activities, toured the library, attended the President's Reception, and in general became accustomed to campus life. Activities such as the interdorm parties and the Student Senate sponsored combo provided recreational opportunities plus a needed change of pace.

With the return of the upperclassmen and the start of classes, New Student Week came to a close and a new and exciting semester commenced.

Long Lines

Holmes Hall, the usual long lines, I.D. photos, signing up for closed classes, and filling out blank checks all marked the beginning of a new semester at Wesleyan. With the increased enrollment, students were doomed to the lengthy registration procedures three days before classes began. The first step in the process was to pick up a registration folder. Clutching this tightly, the Wesleyan student sought out his advisor to complete a class schedule. Then on to Shaw Hall he ran with fellow Wesleyanites close on his heels. Signing up for one's courses became tense when P.E. 101 conflicted with astronomy 340. The adept student made the few necessary changes, then went on. Cards were filled out and checks handed over to the proper authorities. Finally the weary student trudged downstairs to complete the last step in registration—signing up for his Wesleyana picture.

Students Elect

Posters and banners decked the residence halls and the Commons as the 1966 fall elections emerged into full swing. Hot campaign speeches and catchy slogans brought a chosen few into positions of leadership.

Victorious in the contest for senior officers were Jim Herbison, president; Skip Gilbert, vice-president; Joyce Gannon, secretary; and Roger Keller, treasurer. The juniors chose Klaus Krentzer, president; Todd Eberle, vice-president; Sandy Herzog secretary; and Karen Struebing, treasurer. The sophomores were led by president Jim Brown, vice-president Dave Lundstrom, secretary Chris Gilmore, and treasurer Doug Miller. The freshmen elected John Hale, president, Barry Swanson, vice-president; Suzanne Van Hamm, secretary; and Lynn Walker, treasurer.

In the spring students again went to the polls, this time to select senate officers and representatives.

Who's Best Dressed

Wesleyan's annual Best Dressed Girl contest was held during February in conjunction with Glamour Magazine, Panhellenic and Inter-dorm Councils. Twelve girls representing the dorms and houses vied for the title. A panel of judges composed of both students and faculty members selected Ruthann Bomke, Sigma Kappa's representative, as the winner. She then entered the national contest. Rita Clark of Kappa Kappa Gamma, and the Delta Omicron representative, Wendy White, were first and second runners-up respectively.

As master of ceremonies, Richard Kramer introduced the contestants and narrated the style show as each girl modeled three ensembles: school attire, a church dress, and a formal. Little Julie Anne Jones captivated both the audience and Richard, who presented her as the Best Dressed little girl of Bloomington.

CSCASG Faces Bright Future

Last April, Wesleyan hosted the Central States College Association of Student Governments' planning conference. At this time a temporary governmental structure was set up and Greg Dell was elected President. In October twelve Wesleyan representatives traveled to St. John's University in Collegeville, Minnesota, where a constitution was prepared and presented to the twelve member schools for ratification. At this time, Greg Dell was re-elected as president and Sally Jo Peck was appointed secretary. Later in the year Dan Bassill was elected CSCASG co-ordinator, and he also serves as Wesleyan's representative in all CSCASG matters.

Composed of schools related to the Methodist, Lutheran, Presbyterian, Church of the Brethern, and Roman Catholic Churches, CSCASG is the only ecumenical organization of its kind. CSCASG's purpose is to co-ordinate activities of student interest within the member schools and to provide joint action for the schools in such areas as finance, religious activities, and academic structure. By assimilating ideas gathered from member schools, CSCASG plans to develop policies which will benefit all students in the future.

Convo Speakers Come

The Convocations Commission, under the leadership of Denny Brown, strove throughout the year to bring speakers to Illinois Wesleyan who would be of interest to the entire campus, rather than specific departments. By scheduling such men as Rev. Fred L. Zimmerman of Dismas House, Vance Packard, Hans Hotter, Dr. Keith Ditman, and William F. James, they achieved their objective.

In conjunction with the Student Union Commission, the Convocations Commission staged the March Fine Arts Festival. Headlining the many lecturers were John Malcolm Brinnin, a noted contemporary poet, Douglas Campbell, the artistic director of the Tyrone Gutherie Theatre; and William Agee, the assistant curator of the Museum of Modern Art. Pulitzer Prize winning poet, William Wilber; painter Bryon Burford, sociologist, Max Kaplan; and television producer, David Susskind, also contributed to the exciting and informative week.

Concerts Add Variety

This past year has seen many famous entertainers brought to our campus for all-school concerts. Leading the schedule in the fall was Johnny Mathis playing to an overflowing fieldhouse. His two hour show featuring the Young Generation was thrilling to the entire audience. His songs varied from rock and roll to show numbers to ballads, the highlight of the evening being a stunning arrangement of songs from Man of La Mancha.

The second concert featured the English singing team of Peter and Gordon. They pleased a capacity crowd at the field house with a varied assortment of beat, ballad, and folk songs.

The spring concert was An Evening with Earl Wrightson and Lois Hunt, presented free to IWU students at the Consistory. Their songs of Broadway particularly delighted all assembled.

The Johnny Mathis Concert proved to be the height of the Student Senate's concert series.

Summer Study Programs

For high school, undergraduate, and graduate students alike, the summer months at Wesleyan are filled with opportunities for special challenges.

Exceptional high school students who have completed their junior year may enroll in Wesleyan's Escrow program to earn college credit before entering college.

Qualified drama majors can work for eight weeks with the Summer Stock Theatre. A total of five productions were presented, including "The Boy Friend" and "Dracula."

A summer program unique to IWU is the independent study plan. A new work-study experience in Mexico in the field of sociology was started in 1967.

Each summer the music department offers a six-week course to predominately upperclass students interested in enrolling for six hours of credit.

For high school mathematics and science teachers interested in qualifying for a Master of Science Teaching Degree, Wesleyan offers a series of three consecutive summer programs.

Several music students take a break between sessions at Wesleyan's summer music school held at Lake Bloomington.

Carnival in Town!

The tennis courts on campus never saw so much activity as during the Saturday of Campus Carnival. Games, booths, refreshment stands, and even rides made IWU look like a miniature country fair. The college students participated in the games as much as any ten or twelve year old. Joyce Gannon, chairman of the carnival reported that the profit of $650 would be donated to the World University Service.

The day of Campus Carnival was hot and sticky—perfect weather for cotton candy, crowds of people, and plenty of activity. A parade in the morning announced the beginning of the carnival. In the parade were the couples chosen from the Greek houses and dorms who were competing for the title of Campus Carnival King and Queen. The carnival ended with a combo under the big top, and the announcement of the king and queen, Phil Ballard and Arlene Houston. The Tau Kappa Epsilon booth which allowed students to throw raw eggs at its members collected the most money. Sigma Chi came in second with their pie throwing booth and Magill Hall's dunking booth ran a close third.

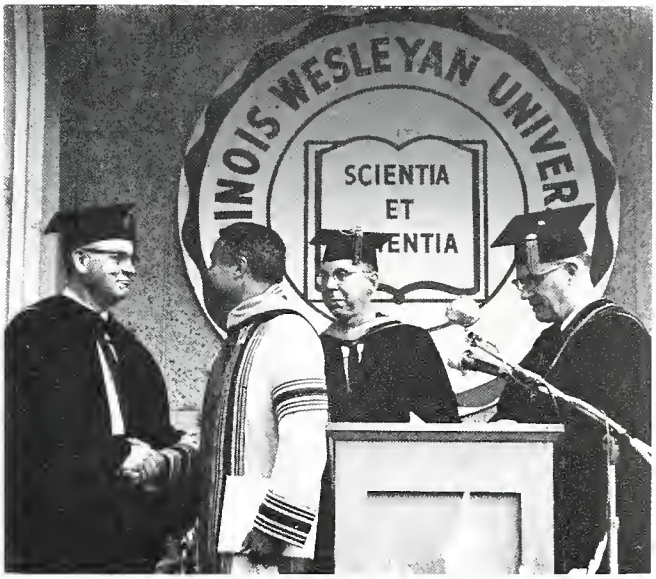
Four Years Gone By

Approximately two hundred and fifty Illinois Wesleyan students participated in the 107th annual commencement exercises held on June 4, 1966. The atmosphere of that windy Sunday afternoon was one of relief, anxiety, and curiosity mixed with extreme happiness and pride. Parents, faculty, and friends of the graduates watched as the academic procession moved from the West Gate of the campus along University Street to the amphitheater behind McPherson. Besides the actual distribution of the diplomas, the highlight of the ceremony was the commencement address given by Dr. R. Sargent Shriver, Jr. Dr. Shriver, Director of the Office of Economic Opportunity and Director of the Peace Corps, gave encouragement and praise to the graduates in his address and emphasized the importance of their accomplishment.

The graduating class of 1966 await the presentation of diplomas at commencement ceremony held on the lawn of McPherson Theater.



Dr. R. Sargent Shriver, Jr., Commencement speaker, receives congratulations after being awarded an Honorary Doctor of Public Administration degree.

ACADEMICS

Miss Anne Meierhofer

Wesleyana Dedicates

Dean Anne Meierhofer has been capably serving Wesleyan's interests for over twenty years. As Dean of Students she must be constantly aware of the concerns and directions of the student body.

Her pride in the students she guides is always evident, whether she is advising Panhellenic Council or the Judiciary Committee, scheduling and co-ordinating social events, or organizing summer orientation programs. In these capacities she has distinguished herself as a fair, honest, and concerned administrator.

For her loyalty and devotion to Illinois Wesleyan and to its student body, we proudly dedicate the 1967 Wesleyana to Miss Anne Meierhofer, Dean of Students.

Dr. Robinson cordially welcomed a delegate to the CSCA speech and drama conference.

Dr. Robinson was introduced as teacher of the year.

Dr. Robinson Honored

The Century Club selected Dr. Marie Robinson as teacher of the year for 1966-67 at their annual spring dinner. The Dean's Council selects three candidates from those nominated by the various departments and schools of the university, with the final selection being made by President Bertholf.

Head of the Speech Department, Dr. Robinson has been at Wesleyan since 1950. This year besides her teaching duties, Dr. Robinson directed Designers in Sound, the IWU choral speaking group, coached students for interpretation tournaments, served as Chairman of the CSCA speech and drama professors, and hosted the CSCA speech and drama conference in December. While on sabbatical leave second semester, she did research in the libraries of UCLA and indexed her doctoral dissertation.

During the Honors Convocation, Susan Connon presented Dr. Robinson with a copy of the 1966 Wesleyana which was dedicated in her honor.

Chief Executive

President Bertholf's major task is to see that the university operates smoothly, with as little friction as possible between personalities, keeping them orientated toward a larger objective. This objective is to keep before the staff and public the fundamental purposes of this institution, which are to offer the student a liberal arts education, provide him with a means of earning a living upon graduation, and instill in him the idealism and values that have been associated with the Judeo-Christian faith.

His busy schedule is divided into three segments. The first is devoted to the university relations with the Methodist Churches in the Central Illinois Conference. He speaks at churches and helps to plan the Illinois Conference which Wesleyan will host in June. The second portion is concerned with state educational interests. This involves attending meetings of the various conferences and organizations of which Wesleyan is a member. Thirdly, his time is spent with fund raising. He visits prospective doners, writes letters of thanks, and presents speeches before various groups to improve public relations.

Also, his time is filled visiting other colleges, trying to keep up with his mail, meeting with the cabinet weekly and All-University Council monthly, holding interviews and conferences with students. This year he also traveled to New York City, and San Jose, California, where he studied computer systems.

President Lloyd Bertholf works to ensure the smooth functioning of all aspects of the university.

E. P. Westervelt and J. H. Bickett look over some of the proposed plans for Wesleyan in the future.

Board Plans

Comprised of forty-five regular members and ten Emeritus members, the Board of Trustees meets three times a year. Due to special considerations of long range university goals, the regular February board meeting was extended from one to two days. Issues considered at this time included future size, enrollment, and salaries.

Anticipated plans for campus growth center around the construction of a chapel, an art building, a music annex and a natatorium. According to the Board, however, all further expansion is dependent upon financial contributions from primarily private sources.

The Board's primary objective for the present as well as the future is to enable the University to maintain its standards of excellence in academic and social facilities.

Busy Deans

Wesleyan has four deans who assist in the smooth functioning of the campus this year. Miss Anne Meierhofer, who serves as Dean of Students, is primarily concerned with the general welfare and total growth of all Wesleyan students. This year her responsibilities were expanded to include supervision over the newly created Campus Security Office. Aiding Miss Meierhofer this year is Miss Virginia Smith, who comes to us from Eastern Illinois University. She supervises the residence halls and trys to achieve the highest possible satisfaction with dorm life. Room assignments and conferences with both head residents and students take up much of her time.

Dean Everette Walker serves as Vice-President of the university. His basic work entails the alteration of the curriculum, selection of new faculty members, handling academic probation, and the Dean's List. In addition he currently serves as editor of the college catalogue and as the advisor of the Academic Affairs Commission of Student Senate. Mr. Donald Ruthenberg, Associate Dean of Students is well known to all on campus. His busy schedule includes counseling student problems, advisor to Inter-Fraternity Council, and working with the student orientation program each summer.

Dean Walker serves as Vice-President of IWU.

The Administration Manages

It is said that behind every great man there is a woman, and behind every great university there is an administration. Such is the case at Illinois Wesleyan. The student never thinks much about them until he is sick, or hungry, or in need of money or a job. Then as if by magic, he discovers their existence.

Located for the most part in Holmes Hall, these men and women are continuously working behind the scenes coordinating university activities. Besides providing the familiar services the Admissions Office, the Business Office, the library, bookstore, and the student center, the administration operates the Publicity and Placement offices, Business Office, the health center, and registrar's office.

Although they are constantly making Wesleyan a better, more efficient university, they always find time to offer aid and advice to troubled students.

English Department

The English Department, under the direction of Dr. Justus Pearson, is constantly expanding to encompass the ever increasing number of students at Illinois Wesleyan. This year the English Department gained three new members: Mr. James Reese, Mr. Travis Ball, and Mr. Jerry Lincoln.

This year also saw the revision of the American Literature courses and the addition of a 300 level course in Milton. Next year will bring even more changes. A flexible Studies in Literature course will be subject to the whim of the professor. Including anything from poetry to the development of the novel, this course should provide many lively presentations, allowing each professor to present what he knows best. The English Department keeps moving along trying to "improve the curriculum and attract the best qualified teachers."

Foreign Language Department

For Wesleyan's Foreign Language Department, 1967 was characterized by growth and improvement. The installation of a modern language lab, operated by remote control, provided language students with the opportunity of improving their pronunciation and oral comprehension. Eventually, the lab will become the basis of a campus communication center, with listening facilities available in the dorms. An additional fourteen hours of advanced language classes also added depth to the language curriculum.

Providing student incentive as well as recognition, Epsilon Epsilon of Alpha Mu Gamma, a national language honorary, was installed at Wesleyan with the initiation of twenty-nine charter members.

During short term, Spanish students utilized their knowledge of the language as they traveled throughout Mexico.

History Department

Our history department is more than "Columbus discovered America, how and why?" The department is much broader in its overall scope of history, and Dr. Bunyan Andrew, head of the department, feels that "the history department is not to be sneezed at because it strives not to give or create a mere bastardization of historical fact."

This year the department offered many independent study programs which could be prepared off campus. Students worked with Dr. Leonard Jennewein at Dakota Wesleyan in the Friends of the Middle Border Museum, in the archives of the McLean County Historical Society, and at the University of the Pacific in Pacific, California with Dr. Lelen Case. The history department also cooperates with other departments on special projects and programing.

Political Science Department

The Political Science Department acquired two new professors, Dr. Leh and Mr. Spencer, this year. Additional courses in international affairs and on the emerging countries were offered. According to Dr. Brown, head of the department, the emphasis in Political Science is placed on public administration, but without neglecting American government and politics.

As a part of the International Organizations course, a field trip was taken during short term to New York City to investigate the functional and general make-up of the U.N. The short term trip to Egypt was canceled because of political unrest, and instead students participated in a seminar in the Scandinavian countries.

Be it Cultural Anthropology or Socio Physics, Indian Dancers fit well into the heterogenous makeup of our native culture.

Sociology and Anthropology Department

This year small group dynamics and research have received emphasis in the areas of Criminology, Sociology of Urban Regions, and Social Psychology. The short term course, contemporary society 1987, was the first course on sociology of the future ever offered in any college. This summer the YMCA is sponsoring a workshop, Urban Analysis, which will be offered to both IWU and ISU students for credit.

Dr. Pape and Dr. Miller are writing a book, The Social Microscope. Dr. Miller's project this year has been a design for research in the comparison of juvenile delinquency in communist East Germany and the U.S. All departmental members did research on the etiological causes of poverty.

Mrs. Emily Dale.

Economics Department

The aim of the Economics Department is to develop the student's ability to analyze objectively and critically the behavior of society in the production, exchange, and consumption of materials and services. The economics student also studies the various methods one uses to make a living. Under the direction of Dr. Chau, the department offers a major program qualifying students for positions in public administration and industry. It also prepares them for graduate work in economics and provides training for students majoring in other fields. Familiarity with the principles of economics enables the students to gain a better comprehension of the way in which the American way of life operates. Courses in this area are open to all students at Wesleyan.

Business Administration

Our business department strived to acquaint the students with the basic series of values and philosophies of the business world at large. The main goal was to touch upon the various areas of business, such as accounting, marketing, finance, personnel, and insurance to prepare students for either good jobs or graduate school. This year the Board of Trustees created a new Division of Business which included the departments of Business Administration, Insurance and Economics.

The short term was spent in an internship program in which students were employed in various businesses of the community, including State Farm Insurance, LVA, and the National Bank of Normal. At the conclusion, papers were written by the students evaluating the merits of the company in which they were employed.

During short term, Internship in Business students working at State Farm became acquainted with the rigors of automobile claims.

Insurance Department

The insurance department at Wesleyan has the distinction of offering the most complete insurance program of any university in the state of Illinois. Since many Wesleyan graduates enter the field of insurance, the courses are designed to serve as preparations for career opportunities as well as to make students more intelligent purchasers of insurance.

In addition to his duties as head of the department, Dr. William Beadles co-authored the book Principles of Life Insurance, and is presently revising the book, Law and the Life Insurance Contract.

During short term, Dr. A. S. Yousri conducted a special research project concerning government regulation of insurance. As a special feature of the department, internship positions in home insurance offices are available to majors following their junior year. In addition to receiving graduation credit, the students receive a salary and valuable experience.

Later they delved into the intricacies of the computerized corporation.

Psychology Department

The greatest test for the psych student is the application of the techniques used for modification of behavior. The desire for the greatest possible autonomy for students was achieved through their involvement in the lab, which included experimental analyses of both animals and children. Short term was geared toward clinical interests with the seniors serving in institutions for the autistic in Michigan, working primarily with retarded children. Psych students are now using a book entitled "Control of Human Behavior" which was co-authored by Dr. Stachnik, Dr. Mabry, and Dr. Ulrich, formerly of the department.

Biology Department

The biology department under the direction of Dr. W. W. Wantland has been extremely active this year in providing Wesleyan's students with a fine background in biology. Every evening sees many biology majors in the science library reading, researching, and studying. Next year, the department is looking forward to even better workings with the acquisition of a new professor.

Research has been active this year with Jerry Sims doing work on the micromanipulation of frog egg nuclei. Dr. Franzen has continued her research on snails under a federal grant, while Dr. Kulfinski has been working on nutritive media for algae. It has indeed been an active year for the biology department.

Dr. Wantland helps Tim Miller with the intricacies of biological electronics.

"Well, Dr. Ries, do you believe me now?"

Chemistry Department

Wesleyan's chemistry department has continued to provide the Wesleyan student with one of the finest chemical trainings available in the state of Illinois. Well-qualified and interested teachers have helped many befuddled students to overcome the diffienlties of the subject. Research opportunities under the supervision of Drs. Wendell Hess, Joseph Collins and Forrest Frank offer the experience and satisfaction of original discovery. The short term program at Argonne National Laboratory also provided for the useage equipment not available at Wesleyan. The initiation, in conjunction with the Physics Department, of a series of guest lecturers on physical science has also extended the learning experience of chemistry students.

Chem students spend many hours between the stacks in the specialized science library.

Physics Department

Under the continually running guidance of Dr. Gary Kessler, the physics department is fast becoming one of the finer departments on campus. Mr. Martin MacDonald has aided Dr. Kessler in trying to improve both the content of the courses and the quality of the physics majors while Mr. Wilson is on leave. Several new courses have been offered this year which have improved the quality of offerings available to the physics major. As if they weren't constantly busy revising and improving their courses, the two profs are engaged in projects such as improving the quality of the spectroscope, building X-ray defraction equipment, and in maintaining and improving Illinois' largest telescope. Also in conjunction with the chemistry department, several spring convocations were sponsored with speakers on topics not usually covered in class.

Dr. Wasley Krogdahl of the University of Kentucky, pauses to visit with Mr. MacDonald (L.), Mary Wright, and Dr. Kessler (R.) after his lecture.

Math Department

The Math Department this year has been engaged in a continuation of its new course program. Since many of the department's objectives were of a long range nature, this was the first year that they were realized. The desired goals included: helping students develop habits of strong, rigorous thinking; aiding students in other departments obtain the mathematical background necessary for further study in their fields; and preparing math majors for future study in graduate schools or mathematical professions. Under the direction of Dr. Evelyn K. Wantland and with the assistance of Miss Dorothy Banfill, and Mr. Douglas Daly, the math department actively pursued its goals for the betterment of the math program.

Education Department

With 400 students in its four teacher education curriculum, the Illinois Wesleyan Education Department is unique in that it is the largest department in the school. The elementary, secondary, music, and art education departments are staffed by a mere three instructors, all of whom have doctorates in their fields. Dr. Emerson Miller holds his degree in Elementary Education, Dr. Lucile Klauser in English, and Dr. Clifford Pfeltz, new to the staff last year, has his degree in administration, and is head of the department.

Expanding to meet the needs of the education students who increase at a rate between five and ten per cent a year, the IWU Education Department is an integral part of the university with the objective, "to develop and instill professional attitudes and respect for teaching as a career, and pride in being a teacher."

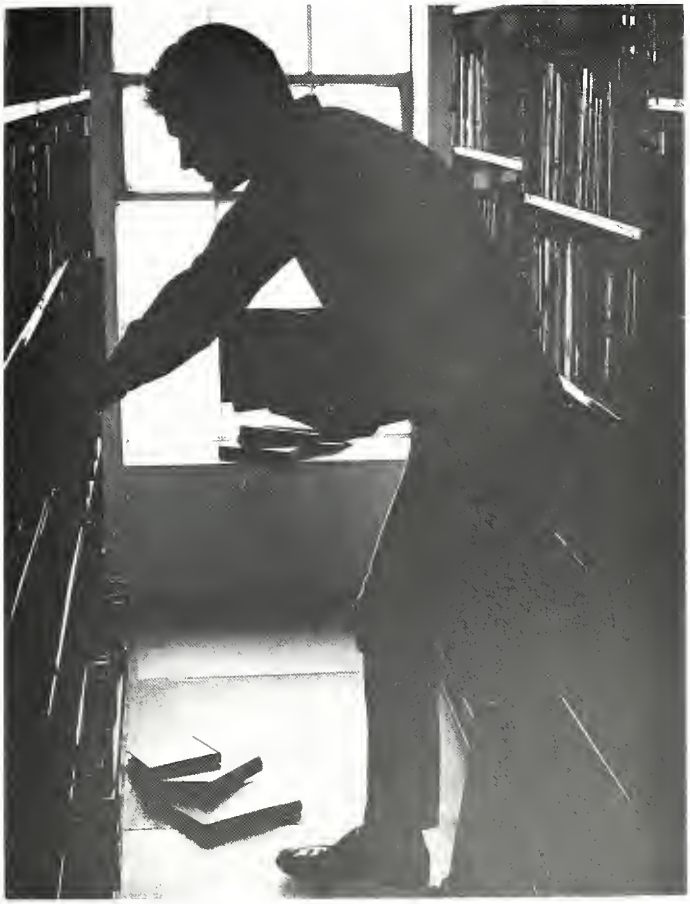
The dark, heavy florescent-lighted tables of Buck are soon to be but a memory.

Library Moves Out

While busily planning the move into the new library, the six professional librarians at Buck Memorial library assisted students at Illinois Wesleyan in making use of available resources. One of the newest additions to Buck was the Xerox machine. This electro-static copier proved to be very popular.

Upon the completion of the new library, Buck will be transformed into an intercultural center. In the basement a dial access laboratory will be set up so that students can dial a language from their carrell, and eventually even a humanities or social science lecture.



The search for knowledge goes on and on and on . . .

Religion Department

The religion department headed by Dr. Stone, Chaplain White, Dr. Whitehurst and Mr. Story covered more than classroom activities. During the second semester, Rabbi Schuster also served as an instructor. Religion majors, clubs and concerned individuals worked with surrounding communities on charity drives, tutoring and various other projects.

Dr. Whitehurst, chairman of the religion department, feels its goals are twofold—to make religion more exciting so it can challenge people in their beliefs, and to grapple with some of the levels of the meaning of life through other religions, the abstract and cold reality.

At present, Dr. Whitehurst is writing a book entitled Parsees of India which concerns research from his trip to India two years ago.

Dr. Whitehurst lectures on Oriental religions, using first-hand information.

Philosophy Department

In a liberal arts college, philosophy perhaps has a more significant role than in other institutions. It fulfills this role by making the student aware of the interrelationships between the various disciplines.

This year, Dr. John Vander Waal, head of the department, spent the year in India with his family as volunteer worker for the Commission on Ecumenical Missions and Relations of the United Presbyterian Church. Dr. Vander Waal was a visiting professor of theology at Serampore College near Calcutta, India. Assistant professor of philosophy, Mrs. Doris Meyers, was also on leave this year doing additional graduate work. Substituting for these two professors was Dr. Larry W. Colter, formerly of Colorado State University.

Point of order!

Speech majors practice a less regulated art: conversation.

Speech Department

Each summer the speech department welcomes incoming freshmen by providing them with the opportunity of testing their speech proficiency. Those students who received a high enough score on the written examination were exempted from the preliminary speech course. During the school year the department concentrated on presenting a balanced theory of the speech arts, including public address, speech correction, interpretation, and diction and phonetics. These areas assisted the department in meeting their goal of helping people to understand and practice the development of the communicative art. The various areas in speech were presented in monthly speech hours which were sponsored by the department and were open to anyone on campus who wished to attend. During the year Mr. Burt prepared for the National Association of Speech Convention which was held in California, and served as acting head of the department second semester while Dr. Robinson was on leave.

Home Economics Department

This year the Home Economics Department concentrated less on business and more on dietetics and education. During short term, actual work experience in dietetics was acquired at Brokaw Hospital. The Child Development classes had a nursery school where they taught three-year-olds on Tuesdays and Thursdays, and on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays they instructed four-year-olds.

Physical Education Department

Most of Wesleyan's physical education courses are designed with the objective of having half the course spent in an outdoor sport, weather permitting, and the other half in an indoor activity. The coaches of varsity athletics handle the men's physical education service courses as well as the theory courses for P.E. majors. Credit and not grades are given for the four required semesters of P.E.

Independent recreational activities were again offered to both men and women during short term. In this program, a student was allowed to participate in any activity of his choice for a required total of five hours per week.

School of Art

Students enrolled in the School of Art may earn either a Bachelor of Arts or a Bachelor of Fine Arts Degree. Those enrolled in the B.F.A. program may major in Fine Art, which includes painting, sculpture, print making, and ceramics, Commercial Art, or Art Education. Courses are also open to non-majors in order that all students on campus are provided with an opportunity for creative experience. The physical facilities of the department, consisting of the print shop ceramics building, a drawing and painting studio, and individual studios, allow students to increase their proficiency in their crafts.

Students as well as members of the faculty exhibit their work at various shows in the center and gallery building. Faculty work was also seen on campuses throughout the country. In addition, guest artists also displayed their work on campus. Highlighting these shows was a special photography exhibit from the Metropolitan Museum in New York.

This year the department saw an increased interest in photography, with several students incorporating painting and photography. Special attention was given to shape, form, and texture; especially the possibilities found in junk yards.

The School of Drama

Under the leadership of Dr. Lawrence Tucker, the drama department tried to enrich the lives of students who were interested in drama, while providing them with training in the various aspects of the theatre: costuming, make-up, stage-craft, acting, and directing. Throughout the year, experimental shows provided seniors with an opportunity to apply their technical and interpretive knowledge accumulated through four years of study, and furnished underclassmen with a chance to perform before an audience.

Joining Dr. Tucker and Mr. James Ascareggi on the department's first semester staff was Mr. John Bergstrom, a former Wesleyan graduate. For second semester, Dr. John Fiecca returned from his sabbatical to resume his duties. The 1966-67 season included four mainstage productions, and a special children's show. A highlight of the year was a special benefit performance of The Devil's Advocate for the Bloomington-Normal Art Association. "The Sound of Music"

As one approaches Presser Hall, the sounds of practicing voices and instruments always serve as a greeting to the School of Music. Once inside, one finds a whole new atmosphere—music is in the air. Practice rooms provided pianos and organs for both solo and accompaniment work. In the evenings the Singing Titans, Women's Chorus, or Chapel Choir were often in rehearsal. The Collegiate Choir and Chamber singers provided music of a professional caliber for many campus functions. If instrumental music was desired, it too was found in the Concert Band and the Symphony Orchestra. Throughout the year good music both vocal and instrumental, was available in the many faculty, student and organizational recitals given in Westbrook Auditorium.

Brokaw Collegiate School of Nursing

Within the next five years, the school of nursing will have grown from 142 to 200 students. To meet this anticipated growth, the physical facilities of the nursing school are constantly expanding and being updated. When Edgar M. Stevenson Hall was remodeled in 1965, it was wired with television cables, and it now has three television receivers. By the fall of 1967, a camera monitor, and video tape recorder will be installed. Through the use of this additional equipment, the school will be able to accommodate the expanded enrollment. IWU's nursing school is the first school of nursing in Illinois to employ these modern facilities. In addition, the new wing at Brokaw Hospital will increase and enhance the availability of clinical laboratory materials. Again this year, senior nursing majors spent the month of January studying in their specific field at specialized institutions in Chicago and Waukegan.

The days of the bumpy bus rides are gone, for nursing majors now have a deluxe, warm, and comfortable bus on which they ride to Peoria.

Munsell Opens

Cold water, undraped windows, and ever-present workmen are some of the inconveniences which made the first few weeks hilarious for the 204 girls now housed in Wesleyan's newest dorm, Munsell Hall.

Guided by Mother Tull, the girls managed to find some time for study between dorm, floor, and birthday parties, open houses, and dances. One of the highlights of the year was the formal, "One Upon a Ski Lodge," held in the beautifully decorated lounge. Quiet meditation was provided every Thursday night in the dorm library. Chaplain White conducted four communion services for the girls throughout the year.

Ferguson Gets a Neighbor

All 156 residents of "Fergie" and Mom J. get along. For three blissful weeks the east doors leading to the new Commons were used. ZAP! Workmen at it again—slow, and easily distracted. Homecoming, an overnight surprise, captured second place with totem poles. The vamp next door made more noise than the Sig's. Two o'clocks accounted for crabby House Council Members, and the dorm survived despite the absence of its President in January. Frequently "Otis" the elevator, refused to cooperate. The new aquarium's shark expired January 21. Vespers weekly, refreshments during exam weeks, an informal and formal rounded out the year.

Another twenty minutes go by.

Mrs. Longman's girls further their education with "Batman."

Pfeiffer Socializes

Since the addition of the covered ambulatory to the Ferguson-Mumsell complex, the girls of Pfeiffer no longer have a monopoly on being sheltered from the delightful Bloomington weather. However, the 111 residents really don't mind, because they had a monopoly on the Homecoming decoration contest. Their entry "How the West Was Won" captured first place, which made all the work well worth the girls effort.

Susi Bellrichard, Susan White, and Gretchen Zinsmaster represented the dorm in the Homecoming Queen contest, Best-Dressed Girl competition, and Campus Sweetheart contest respectively.

The Craftsmen provided music for an impromptu hootenanny during first semester, which added an unexpected social evening for the girls. During second term, the dorm had an informal, and finished out the social calendar with the formal in April.

DeMotte Lodge Obeys

Opening its doors for the second time last fall, DeMotte Lodge became a new home for eleven women. Because it proved so successful in the past, DeMotte maintained its unique position on campus as the "honor" dorm. DeMotte had no housemother; rather it depended upon the girls themselves to enforce university regulations and still keep the very undorm-like atmosphere it is known for.

A dining room converted to study center was the scene of many all night quizzing sessions, and by day became a sewing center. With sewing machines and a host of avid knitters, a visitor was assured of seldom seeing any of the girls "just sitting."

The women of DeMotte make use of their kitchen facilities to prepare the evening's supply of popcorn.

Adams Enjoys Home

It may not be as modern as Ferguson, or have a view of the Sig house like Munsell, but twenty Wesleyan women call Adams Hall home. Whether in capturing the second place trophy for house decs, (Kemp may have helped a little) or in winning the women's intramural basketball championship for the second year in a row, Adams Hall girls showed plenty of enthusiasm.

Social events for the year included a "Halloweenie Roast," a game night, and of course, trimming the Christmas tree. There was also mid-night marshallow toasting in front of the fire place for the non-weight-watchers.

Blackstock Relaxes

It can't be seen from the exterior or even the interior of Blackstock Hall, but sentiment, sensitivity and fun are to be found within this girls' small residency for upperclassmen—Blackstock Hall.

Good living and close friendships go hand in hand as twenty girls get together and forge their way through the school year—not as separate individuals but as one big family. Pizza parties, card playing and other informal get-togethers continue in proportion to studying, reading and learning by each individual. Dorm government is less formal than other dorms, but each girl has a better chance of being informed and active not only in the dorm but on campus. All and all, the girls of Blackstock have enjoyed it and its atmosphere.

Kemp Enjoys Itself

Which of the familiarities of today are to become the cherished memories of tomorrow?

The sights—frost-covered radiators on the winter mornings . . . the Kemp Hall White Devils readying themselves for the football season in Pfeiffer Field . . . the pet pandas frolicking on the stairway . . .

The sounds—the ringing of the alarm clock thirty minutes early—or late . . . "Coming up!", Marie's final warning to the denizens of the third-floor shower room . . .

The innovations—the arrival of a new director, Mrs. Warren, to head the Kemp company . . . the replacement of the old ping-pong tables in the recreation room with a chic, ceiling-high pile of mattresses and broken chairs . . .

But foremost, the men themselves—individual . . . solitary . . . unfriendly.

These things are Kemp—where each day, somehow, is better than the next.

Kemp men find another game that looks like Bridge.

Munsell is its own place, and in itself can make a Heaven of Hell, a Hell of Heaven.

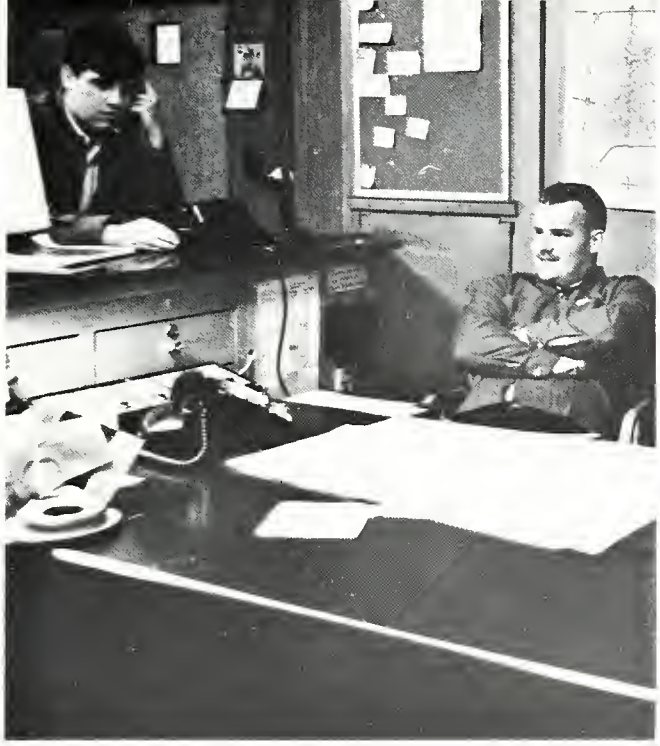
Munsell Lodge Discusses

Munsell Lodge is now in its last years as a haven for those men disenchanted with the hotel existence of the larger men's dorms. This independent existence, wholly apart from the campus flux, has bred a most self-assured and assertive group of individuals.

Mrs. Edith Kuhn the Lodge's housemother and moral guardian, maintained a working coalition between the sympathetic apathetic, and revolutionary factions within the house fully fifty percent of the time and is much to be congratulated for her indefatigable effort.

To the ceaseless clash of Les and Larry Elgart, the Mamas and the Papas, Prokofiev, dice rattling, cards snapping, bottles crashing, laughter, screams and invective, men live think and create at Munsell Lodge.

P. Billingham, Social Chairman, and J. Tungate, President, bourgeoisly fill their positions.



"Oh, what he just said!!"

Magill Goes Theta

For the ninety-six men of Magill Hall, dorm life had a unique atmosphere. Assuming the name "Theta Magill," they worked towards developing greater unity and spirit within the dorm.

Competing in intramural basketball, the freshman team tied for first place with the Fijis. In golf, the dorm ranked fifth among the other teams. To close the year's sporting events a special recognition banquet was held at Sinorak, honoring everyone who had participated in intramurals during the year.

Under the guidance of Mother Webber, the dorm was also socially active, with the winter informal, "Terpiscord," and an open house held in February. For their annual spring formal, the men entertained their dates at the Illinois House.

Gulick Changes

What ever happened to Gulick Hall? With the new school year came a new life outlook for Gulick, for it became the home of 141 reserved members of the masculine campus populace.

The men of Gulick are enjoying their new domestic habitat under the watchful eye and care of "Mom" Sweet. The monumental patio area remains an area of constant traffic. It provided the site of Gulick's challenging Homecoming house decorations—the only living entry: a mass football exhibition impersonated by none other than the famed "Gulick Gang."

The social roster of Gulick began by sponsoring a highly successful all-school combo in the Memorial Center. The entertainment was provided by "The Wanderers" (native inhabitants of Gulick Hall). Similar events were planned for the spring.

Two more men find that Gulick is no longer a women's dormitory.

Franklin Remodels

New domestic conditions christened the school year for the men of Franklin Hall, with a parking area expansion and an added optical viewing span. Upon returning from their Thanksgiving holidays, they found their familiar realms of slumber repainted in stunning shades of pink and green.

Once again the spirited Franklinites captured first place with their Homecoming house decoration through their theme, "From Here to Eternity."

Two successful Franklinite informals were presented with the rhythmic beat of drums and amplifiers presenting the ideal atmosphere for these cavorting enthusiasts. Aside from social events, the men can be found indulging in bridge tournaments, watching T.V., or devising highly explosive ketchup compounds.

The men of Franklin Hall plot new manners of disturbance.

Alpha Gams Entertain

With the annual altruistic dinner and campus open-house, the school year was officially launched for Xi Chapter of Alpha Gamma Delta. As the seasons changed so the mood changed for the Alpha Gams—an old fashioned hayride lent a country atmosphere for their pledge informal, "Wagon's Ho;" "Crystal Cotillion" transformed the chapter house for the winter formal; and for the spring formal 1409 N. Main assumed the elegance of a stately southern mansion.

Washing dishes and serving meals, duties usually reserved for the houseboys, were undertaken by the Alpha Gams one night as they honored their houseboys at a special steak dinner. Another special evening was planned when they entertained the daughters of their alums at an evening supper in order to acquaint them with the sorority.

Alpha Omicron Pi Spoofs

Beta Lambda Chapter of Alpha Omicron Pi, the youngest house on campus, had a happy and productive year. The AOPi's began with the annual AOPineapple party put on in the autumn by the pledge class.

The girls hosted the entire campus later in the autumn when they held a SPOOF dance at the chapter house. "Custer's Last Stand" was the theme of the AOPi's winter informal and everyone had a good time in the formal atmosphere of the spring dinner dance. Entertaining dads on Dad's Day was another highlight of the AOPi's year when they presented their Western rush skit complete with humor, songs and a dance line.

The AOPi's have also worked hard this year for their national philanthropic program, Frontier Nursing Social Service in Kentucky. In addition, they worked for McLean County Tuberculosis Association as a local philanthropic project.

Kappa Delta Keeps Busy

Homecoming, under the chairmanship of Peggy White, took the theme "What's Going on Here?" The KD-SX float took first place. The fall informal took the mod motif "Carnaby Capers" and the winter formal was decorated for the traditional "Twelve Days of Christmas." The social pace continued with the spring informal "Stegasaurous Stomp" and "Beachcombers". Open rush parties and dinners continued throughout the year.

Philanthropic projects included a Christmas orphan party given with the Theta Chi's, national support of the Crippled Children's Hospital at Richmond, Va., and visits to Maple Grove Nursing Home.

Omicron chapter welcomed a visit by their Province President Mrs. Pamelia Fawcett. Ann Valbert was selected as the delegate to National Convention this June in Pasadena, Calif.

Kappa Kappa Gamma Plays Host

Epsilon Chapter of Kappa Kappa Gamma was founded at Wesleyan in 1873 as the first sorority on the campus. Although their homecoming float, built with the Theta Chis, burned minutes before the judging, the girls captured the panhellenic Sweepstakes trophy.

The annual fall informal given in honor of the 17 new pledges called "Ghoul's Night Out" was held at Davis Lodge.

The winter formal featured the King of Kappa Kappa Gamma and his court. The men were "royally" entertained by a special dinner and ceremony at the chapter house.

Spring brought Province Convention at which time the girls entertained sisters from eight other midwest chapters and several national officers. Two days of discussion enlightened all those in attendance on current collegiate and fraternity topics.

The Kappa pledges each took care of girls from the Lucy Morgan home, and the actives participated in the Panhellenic program at Maple Grove Nursing Home.

The Kappas' new stereo provided entertainment for all.

Sigma Kappa Helps Out

Eta Chapter of Sigma Kappa is the home of Wesleyan's 1966 Homecoming Queen, Janice Young. This year's Homecoming events also brought the second place trophy to the SK's in the float division.

Sigma Kappas' social calendar included "The Web", the fall informal; the winter dinner-dance, "Glitter and Gold"; and bringing the year to an end, the spring informal and picnic.

The SK's philanthropic program is one of gerontology. Each girl had one particular "grandmother" or "grandfather" to visit at Brokaw Hospital. Serving food trays at the hospital was another Sigma Kappa project.

Delta Omicron Presents

A professional fraternity for women music majors, Delta Omicron sponsored two special concerts during the year. Phyllis Schlomovitz, concert artist and solo harpist for the Milwaukee Symphony, presented a varied program which was enjoyed by Wesleyan's music enthusiasts. To acquaint the students with this seldom-heard instrument, the Delta Omicrons sponsored as a service project a lute recital by William Rhodes. Other activities included the annual Christmas musicale, a May breakfast put on by the chapter parents, a spring formal, a spring concert, and a pledge musicale. Several exchange programs with the ISU chapter were also scheduled.

Phyllis Schlomovitz opened the IWU concert season.

A Saturday morning bake sale served as a pledge fund raising project.

Sigma Alpha Iota Harmonizes

Thirty-five music majors make up the Sigma Alpha chapter of the professional fraternity for women on Wesleyan's campus.

Working with the International Music Fund to rehabilitate the disabled with music was one of the worthy projects the chapter sponsored this year. The SAI's did Braille music transcription for the blind for this philanthropic project. By sponsoring pianist William Doppmann the SAI's earned money from the concert sales for the sorority scholarship fund which was used to sponsor artists in furthering their musical studies.

The SAI's also had a full social calendar which included their spring formal having the traditional theme of "Symphony of Roses".

Acacia Builds

After months of anticipation, ground breaking ceremonies for their new home located on the corner of Kelsey and Franklin were held in May, with the hope that dedication will take place on November 10 commemorating the tenth anniversary of the chapter's founding.

The year's social calendar included their fall informal, "Dooms Day," the Sweetheart Formal in February, and the annual "Nite on the Nile" for which the Acacian mummy visits the various women's residences delivering invitations and later the sphinx makes its traditional appearance on campus. The Holiday Season brings both their annual Christmas party and Campus Carol which they sponsor in conjunction with Sigma Alpha Iota.

Coral Snyder and Terry Black find the Acacia-AOPi exchange very enjoyable.

Fiji Festivities

Halloween spirits at the Phi Gam house entertain the children.

Proud of the color and life which they have continually added to campus, the men of Alpha Deuteron of Phi Gamma Delta are well located to make the most of Franklin Park.

With members participating in every sport except tennis, athletics is definitely a major interest of the Fijis. In the area of community service, the Phi Gams entertained the children from Booker T. Washington at Halloween and Easter parties.

Returning from Christmas vacation the Phi Gams were met by a distinct "burning" odor, the result of a small fire in the second story sleeping quarters.

The culmination of its many social activities was the crowning of their sweetheart at the annual Rose Formal.

Sigma Chi Kegs It

Alpha Iota Chapter of Sigma Chi is a diverse house, with the interests of the brothers running from fine arts to athletics.

At Homecoming the Sigs saw hours of hard work pay off as they won the rope pull, campus beast, and float competition. At the dance concluding the weekend, the Sigs succeeded in capturing the Sweepstakes Keg for the fifth consecutive year.

On campus the Sigs are active holding varied positions in student government and campus organizations. Highlights of the Sig social calendar are the Pledge Pajama Party in the fall, and Derby Day and the Sweetheart Formal in the spring.

Tau Kappa Epsilon Moves In

As the residents of their new chapter house on Franklin Avenue, the men of Alpha Chapter of Tau Kappa Epsilon held several open houses during the year. The stately colonial exterior and the spacious interior provided welcome changes from their old house which was demolished by fire last August.

The TEKES concluded last year by placing first in Campus Carnival, and continued winning as they triumphed in the Chariot Race at Homecoming.

Alpha Chapter's annual Bowery Brawl and Ski Party provided social relaxation, with the highlight of the year being the Festival of the Red Carnation.

The TEKES acquire a new home on campus.

Theta Chi Adds Incentive

With men in all areas of campus activities and possessing a well-rounded program of events at the house, Theta Chi is a progressive fraternity. Wesleyan's Beta Rho Chapter commemorated its twenty-fifth anniversary with a special banquet for both undergraduate and alumni.

Representation in campus activities is an important aspect with brothers serving as Student Senate President and Treasurer, Sophomore Class President, and Religious Activities and Public Relations Commission Heads.

Balancing their interest in campus activities they have a wide range of scholastic and social endeavors. Highlights of the social year were the Dream Girl Formal and the Playboy Party. As a unique campus service, they printed the Theta Chi Co-Ed Calendar and provided them free of charge to all Wesleyan students and faculty.

Past and present are recorded in scrap-books, highly treasured by the brothers and their housemother.

Phi Mu Alpha Goes Baroque

The thirty-four men of Wesleyan's Alpha Lambda Chapter of Phi Mu Alpha are doubly proud of their chapter this year. In addition to being named the best chapter in Province Five, they were recognized over eighteen other chapters for their exceptional musical achievements and campus interest as the outstanding chapter in the Region.

Phi Mu traditionally sponsors two jazz concerts, the "American Musicale," and a Baroque Collegium program, this year entitled "Going Baroque."

Providing a pleasant break from their rigorous practice schedule were "Tahitian Twilight" and "Twas the Night," two of their social events for the year.

ORGANIZATIONS

Egas Reapplies

To the ranks of Egas, a local honorary scholastic society for women, are elected in the spring of their junior year those girls who have best exemplified the standards of excellence in scholarship, character, and service to the university. New members are known by the long black robes which they wear the day after induction.

This year Egas greatly expanded its service projects before reapplying to National Mortar Board. These included ringing bells for the Salvation Army in downtown Bloomington during the Christmas season, and collecting old Christmas cards to send to the Lincoln State School for the Mentally Handicapped. On campus, Egas participated in a chapel service and started a file of graduate school catalogues and applications which will be made available to junior and senior women.

Blue Key Serves

Each fall and spring outstanding senior men and a few select junior men are seen on campus with large blue keys around their necks. These are the symbols of their election to Blue Key, the largest national recognition society for men.

Since Wesleyan's chapter was established in 1943, members have been selected on the basis of scholarship, leadership, and their interest in campus events. In keeping with their motto "Leadership and Service," members annually sponsor two blood drives in connection with the American Red Cross. They also ushered for all school convocations as well as the Johnny Mathis and the Peter and Gordon concerts.

Through their annual blood drive, Blue Key serves the community as well as the university.

Freshmen Women Achieve

Alpha Lambda Delta is an honorary academic society for freshmen women earning a 3.5 grade point average either first or second semester. Alpha Lam started off the year with a tea for all incoming freshmen women to welcome them and to encourage scholastic achievement. They also sponsored an after hours "Smarty Party" at mid-term first semester for all freshmen women who escaped without D or F slips. Activities were climaxed with an initiation banquet in the spring. Last November Wesleyan members helped to install a chapter of Alpha Lambda Delta at ISU.

Wesleyan's chapter was proud to have its advisor, Dean Meierhofer, elected to the National Council of Alpha Lambda Delta at the annual meeting held in Galveston, Texas.

Green Medallion Recognizes

Since its founding in 1941, Green Medallion has given recognition to sophomore students who have shown qualities of leadership while participating in campus activities, and who have maintained at least a 2.5 accumulative grade average. The organization, under the sponsorship of Mr. Lee Short, the Director of Admissions, is entirely honorary. The only duty of membership is to determine the successors for the following year. Initiation is held each spring, followed by a banquet. After receiving their ribbons and certificates, members of the class of 1968 heard Dr. Joseph Collins, head of the chemistry department, speak. Dr. Collins was selected as the faculty member to receive honorary membership, a tradition which originated in 1966.

Phi Kappa Phi Selects

Phi Kappa Phi is the largest scholastic fraternity in the country, and it is the highest honorary society to which a Wesleyan student may be elected. Membership is based on high standards of character and scholarship, with members being selected by the faculty. To be eligible for election, students must rank in the upper ten per cent of their class; however, most Wesleyan students are selected from the top six per cent. Although membership is almost exclusively restricted to seniors, a few juniors may be elected in the spring. Faculty members may also be elected for outstanding contributions to the field of higher education.

The main activity of Phi Kappa Phi is the assisting with preparations for the Honor's Convocation in May. This year they secured Mr. William James, nationally known business leader and humanitarian as the speaker and presented awards to the member of each class who had the highest grade point average.

Dr. Watkins presents Sue Connon with her recognition ribbon to be proudly worn after initiation.

Journalists Honored

Illinois Alpha Chapter of Gamma Upsilon, honorary literary society, was founded at Wesleyan in 1935 by the late Dr. W. E. Schultz. Members of the fraternity are chosen on the basis of service for two or more semesters on the Argus, Wesleyana, or Blackbook and an interest in improving Wesleyan publications. Each semester prospective members are invited to join the group and formal initiation is held, followed by a banquet. The group started this year by inviting its new pledges to a dinner at the coffeehouse at which Harold Liston, Pantagraph editorial writer, gave a talk on law and the journalist. In 1963 the chapter decided to continue as a local society when the national organization disbanded. This year the group is trying to contact other such local organizations and is adopting an official Gamma Upsilon pin. At the annual Honors Day Convocation, the group presented three awards in the areas of outstanding writing ability, general contribution and managerial capacity. Bernie Gummerman of Gummerman Printing Co. is the advisor of Gamma Upsilon.

Preparing for the World of Business

Delta Psi Chapter of Alpha Kappa Psi was established on Illinois Wesleyan's campus in 1958. A national professional business fraternity for men, Alpha Kappa Psi's membership includes students majoring in Business Administration, Economics, or Insurance.

Throughout the year, guest speakers from various fields of the business world have visited the chapter to share personal experiences in their respective careers. Also included in this year's agenda was a field trip to Milwaukee, which included tours of manufacturing and commercial firms. One of the highlights of the year was the hosting of the District "Leadership Seminar" which included six schools from Illinois. They also hosted Albert H. Barlow, second vice president of the Chase Manhattan Bank, while he was visiting campus.

Kappa Delta Pi Learns

One of the most recent campus organizations, Kappa Delta Pi, honorary education fraternity, entered its third year on Wesleyan's campus. Members are selected on the basis of their professional attitude and interest and on their accumulative scholarship average. Members of the junior class must have a 3.2, while senior members are required to have a 3.0. Dr. Lucile Klauser served as the group's sponsor.

Activities during the year included selling pens in the student center as a money making project, electing new members in the fall and spring, and publicizing National Education Week. Mr. Rupert Kilgore of the School of Art spoke about the recorder at the fall initiation banquet. Programs at the monthly meetings included a panel discussion by Wesleyan students on their student teaching experiences, and a group of citizens described the educational systems in the Bloomington-Normal area.

Masquers Read

Masquers is a local organization whose membership is determined by points earned through conscientious work in all phases of mainstage and student directed productions.

Although primarily a social organization, Masquers sponsored a reading theatre program which has included such interesting productions as Jack, or the Submission; Stephen D.; Dylan and the successful musicals The Fantasticks and Camelot. The club also sponsored cast parties and a farewell party for January graduates.

This year Masquers was encouraged by the increased number of candidates for membership, thus requiring its first mid-year initiation.

Theta Alpha Phi Dramatizes

Illinois Wesleyan University is the home of Illinois Beta Chapter of the National Honorary Dramatics Fraternity, Theta Alpha Phi, whose members have achieved excellence in their chosen phase of theatrical art.

TAP'es are responsible for greeting new and prospective students and informing them of the workings of McPherson Theatre. In addition to these duties, Theta produced Dickens's Christmas Carol for WJBC and financed a theatre trip to Chicago by sponsoring a movie and numerous coffee house shows. Theta members are proud of their organization, and set the standard for those underclassmen wishing to prove themselves in theatre.

Pi Kaps Travel to National

Illinois Wesleyan is the home of Illinois Alpha, one of the founding chapters of Pi Kappa Delta. Founded in 1912-13, Pi Kap is the national forensic fraternity, whose purpose is "the art of persuasion beautiful and just." Membership is based on a student's participation in a required number of intercollegiate contests, in either the area of debate, discussion, or oratory. This year seventeen pledges were initiated in March.

March was also the date of the National Pi Kappa Delta convention, held at Whitewater, Wisconsin. Seven representatives attended from Wesleyan in the fields of debate, extemporaneous speaking and oratory. In April Pi Kap sponsored the second annual college bowl, with representatives from each housing unit competing in the academic contest. In addition they supervised the annual Peace Speaking Contest earlier in the year.

Kappa representatives await their next question during the Pi Kap College Bowl.

Beta Beta Beta Researches

Beta Beta Beta is the honorary fraternity on campus honoring those students who have an interest in biology. Those students having a "B" average in ten hours of biology are admitted as full members while those having eight hours of biology are admitted as provisional members until they fulfill the requirements completely.

This year, after the initiation ceremony, a banquet was held at Sinorak during which various methods of improving the biology training at Wesleyan were discussed. At times during the year, the group also sponsored various speakers on topics of interest to students of biology, such as Merle Wurth a hospital biochemist who spoke on biochemical testing.

Alpha Tau Delta Philanthropizes

Fifty-one nursing majors were members of Wesleyan's chapter of Alpha Tau Delta, a national honorary nursing fraternity. To be eligible for pledging, which occurs twice yearly, a girl must be a sophomore nursing major and have a 2.5 accumulative as well as professional average the previous semester.

In order to improve the official procedure of their chapter meetings Alpha Tau members under the supervision of Mr. Burt undertook a research project on parliamentary procedure. As philanthropic projects, the Alpha Tau Deltas planned parties and special programs for the Brokaw Nursing Home, Illinois Soldiers and Sailors Children's School, and the Booker T. Washington Home.

Initiating what will become an annual tradition, President Bob Montgomery presents the first State of the Senate Address.

Student Governing Board

This year the Student Senate, consisting of fifty-two senators, under the leadership of Bob Montgomery brought many improvements to the Wesleyan campus. An exchange program of senators between this campus and that of ISU enabled both universities to expand ideas and activities and improve communication. In addition Wesleyan hosted a joint leadership conference with ISU in April. Another new idea of Senate support was the Central States College Association of Student Governments, CSCASG. Senate agreed to support this newly formed organization in order to promote projects and communication among the member schools.

Concerts were a major project of Student Senate this year. Stars obtained included the Shirelles, Johnny Mathis and Peter and Gordon. The surprise, pre-vacation dance "Break Away", held after hours was another new idea that found great support among the student body.

Discussion of the civil rights issue, administrative policies, cut policies, and revision of the Senate constitution were but a few of the items on this year's Senate agenda.

Commissions Harmonize

The various areas of campus life are coordinated by the Student Senate commissions and committees which are composed of both student and faculty members. Academic Affairs Commission serves as a sounding board for discussions of proposed changes and the evaluating of new ideas. The Convocations Commission attempts to obtain dynamic, interesting speakers, and sponsors the Fine Arts Festival. The Religious Activities Commission plans lectureships and the chapel programs. The Publications Commission sees that campus publications function smoothly. The Social and Welfare Commission sponsors Campus Carnival and other service projects. The Student Union Commission plans a balanced agenda of cultural, social, and recreational events. Public Relations serves as the Student Senate Publicity Office. Disciplinary matters and special events are regulated by special chairmen and committees.

Panhellenic Councils Coordinate

Striving for better campus and inter-sorority relations, Panhellenic Council is comprised of three girls from each social sorority, and their advisor, Miss Anne Meierhofer.

Among the activities sponsored by Panhel this year were a dessert for all new pledges, Glamour Magazine's Best Dressed Girl Contest, Greek Week activities, and weekly visits with patients at Maple Grove Nursing Home.

The major issue of business entailed an investigation of inviting a sixth sorority on campus. It is hoped that this extension project will be completed by next fall.

Professional Panhellenic Council is composed of representatives from the two professional music sororities and the professional nursing sorority. The purposes of the organization are to set up the schedule and procedures for rush, to promote better relations between the professional organizations, and to raise professional standards in the respective fields. With the assistance of Dean Meierhofer, they attempt to solve common problems which arise. The major undertaking this year was the amending of the constitution.

Interdorm and IFC Coordinate

Serving as the coordinating body for dorm activities, the twenty-two members of Interdorm Council met twice a month under the guidance of Deans Meierhofer and Ruthenberg. Each housing unit was represented by its president and one elected delegate. Operating under a newly devised plan of organization, the council was active throughout the year. In addition to a campus-wide bridge tournament, a special May Day party was given for the children of ISSCS, Victory Hall, and the Booker T. Washington Home as a community service project.

Promotion and coordination of the Greek system is the purpose of the Interfraternity Council. IFC annually controls the men's rush program and co-sponsors Greek Week with Panhellenic Council. This year's activities for Greek Week included a variety show and a Greek dance during which the Greek of the Year awards were presented.

IFC participated in the Bloomington-Normal Heart Fund Drive and collected over $700 for this organization. This year IFC's convention was held in New Orleans, where IWU delegates, Steve Boger and Gregg Garlisch, participated in group discussions to exchange ideas and improve Wesleyan's IFC.

Independent Students Combine

Due to a constitutional revision, what was last year the Independent Men's Association is now the Independent Students' Association. The only change that the revision has incurred is the admittance of female students into membership; the purpose of promoting participation of unaffiliated students in campus activities remains the same. The organization sponsored the Sweetheart Dance in February, a clothing drive for the Illinois Soldiers and Sailors Children's School, a benefit magic show for the children of Booker T. Washington Home, and a discussion led by faculty member Mrs. Emily Dale on a controversial social issue.

Assemblage Exhibits

Entering its second year on campus, Assemblage Art Honorary Organization has expanded its activities and clarified its purposes. Members are selected by their fellow art majors from the sophomore, junior and senior students with a 3.00 or better in art. This year Assemblage held two sales; presented the first annual exhibition of the members' work, titled "Assemblage One," which contained a respectable variety of approaches and techniques; and sponsored a kite-flying contest in the spring. Advised by Mr. Tony Vestuto, Assemblage also handles the Purchase Show painting displayed on campus. During Wesleyan's Fine Arts Festival, Assemblage had the privilege of sponsoring Mr. Byron Burford to judge the show hung for the occasion. Assemblage also provides opportunities for individuals to display their work on the north wall of the Memorial Center's student lounge. Assemblage hopes to cultivate an all-campus interest in the creative artist and his work.

Young Republicans Oppose

After several years of inactivity, the Young Republicans were reorganized this year by Joe Anderson and Dr. Donald Brown. During the November elections, the members worked at the Bloomington Young Republicans Headquarters distributing pamphlets and other election materials. Culminating pre-election enthusiasm, an election-returns party was held in the student center for anyone interested.

In February, the group traveled to the State Young Republicans Convention in Chicago. At this time, Joe Anderson was elected State Executive Secretary.

Because of their efforts and their rapidly increasing membership, the Young Republicans received letters of commendation from such political figures as Senator Percy, Senator Dirksen, and State Representative Anderson.

All University Council Convenes

All University Council is the general coordinating device and information center for the overall extra-curricular activities of the campus. With President and Mrs. Bertholf serving as hosts, student leaders and administrators met monthly to exchange ideas and explain policies. This year's topics of discussion included tuition increases and university expansion. Under these headings, progress reports were made on the new library, and the proposed plans for the new observatory were viewed. The council also met with Mr. John King, the new security officer, and Mr. Lee Horton, who analyzed the problems of the food service and student union building operations.

Co-Choir Goes West

During spring vacation IWU's Collegiate Choir, under the direction of Mr. David Nott, traveled west. Stops included performances in Iowa, Wyoming, Nebraska, and Colorado. Concluding their tour, the choir sang for the cadet chapel service at the Air Force Academy. Upon returning to school the annual campus concert was presented in Presser Hall. Included on their program was a selection commissioned especially for them by Relly Raffman of Clark University. Mr. Rallman was present on campus to hear the choir perform his work. Also during the year, the choir performed at the Contemporary Music Symposium, presented a Lenten Service for Wesley Methodist Church, recorded a special background number for the Terrapin show, and appeared on a local television program.

Mr. Nott again carefully reads through the score as his choir follows intently.

Choral Groups Vocalize

For those who simply enjoy singing for pleasure, the Singing Titans and Women's Chorus are two choral organizations whose membership is open to all university students, regardless of major. The only prerequisite is an interest in singing.

Both groups practice weekly under the direction of Mr. David Nott. During the year, they performed at various chapel services as well as in the Christmas and spring concerts. At the Christmas concert the Singing Titans premiered four original Christmas compositions and arrangements written by members of the Choral Arranging Class. For their participation, members may earn one-half credit per semester.

Chapel Choir Inspires

The Chapel Choir, with Mr. David Nott directing, provided special choral music for a number of chapel services throughout the school year, adding continuity and depth to the service. Although the Chapel Choir performs for spring concerts, and contributes a number of selections to the Christmas Choral Concert every year, its primary function is to sing anthems and special numbers for chapel services.

Choral Elite

The Collegiate Chamber Singers this year consisted of a group of twelve upper class and graduate students from the School of Music who were selected from the nationally known Illinois Wesleyan University Collegiate Choir. Their performances consisted largely of Renaissance and contemporary madrigals and choral music. Besides working on recordings and tours, the Chamber Singers perform in the Christmas Concert, present an all-campus Spring Concert in Presser Hall and hold special performances for various faculty and student organizations.

Students take over the job of conducting at the annual spring concert which was held outdoors.

Concert Band Tours

Under the direction of Mr. John McGrosso, the Concert Band was open for membership to all qualified students, regardless of major. This year the Band had a full schedule of performances including both the winter and spring concert.

In March, the Concert Band went on its annual tour, playing in high schools throughout Illinois, as well as Missouri. These concerts consisted primarily of classics including "Rhapsody in Blue" and Beethoven's "Egmont Overture."

Hup. Two. Three. Four. . .

The Illinois Wesleyan Marching Titans under the direction of Mr. Maurice Willis provided the half-time shows for all the home football games and before each of the home basketball games. For his second year, drum major Bill Hertel led the band in their precision drills and formations despite persistently cold and rainy weather. Highlights of the year were the Homecoming show based on themes from "The Sound of Music", and the comical performance for Dad's Day. It took hundreds of hours of work and practice to prepare performances for the Wesleyan Titan sports fans.

Orchestra Presents Concerts

Mr. Mario Mancinelli again directed Wesleyan's symphony orchestra, which consisted of approximately forty-five members this year. Participation in orchestra was open to the entire school with interested students auditioning for chair placements. Orchestra members gained one-half to one hour of credit for each semester.

In April the orchestra accompanied the school's Opera Theatre, in which The Marriage of Figaro by Mozart was performed in its entirety. Included in the major concerts this year were Brahm's Symphony Number 3 and Sibelins Symphony.

MENC Remains Useful

The most important organization is one that is useful after college as well as during the college years. This is the main benefit of MENC, Music Educators' National Conference. Membership during college is limited to junior and senior music education majors, but the benefits of membership continue when one becomes a professional teacher. Under the direction of Mr. Richard Hishman, MENC represents every phase of music education at all types of educational institutions. Several Wesleyan students took part in the Illinois MENC Conference this year. Through their participation in a variety of music workshops, they were rewarded with the exchange of ideas and talent.

The experience and knowledge gained through MENC proves valuable after one has entered the teaching profession.

Future Teachers

The Student Education Association is an organization of people interested in becoming teachers. As a supplement to the education curriculum, it helps to develop professionalism in the teaching field. Serving as faculty advisor was N. Emerson Miller.

Dr. Whitehurst, religion department professor, entertained SEA members at the opening meeting with some of his campus renowned magic tricks. Other programs included the annual student-teacher panel and a special Christmas program. Also each spring SEA members put on a musical program at Shamel Manor, a retirement home in Normal for teachers.

IEO Informs

Since its formation last year, the International Exchange Organization has tried to fulfill its purpose of developing an informed student opinion about international affairs and encouraging students to examine and compare various cultures of the world. With Senate approval, IEO was incorporated as a part of the Academic Affairs Commission, but retained its own officers and programs.

After its study seminar, "Winds of Change" held last spring, IEO expanded its program of activities. These included the sponsorship of representatives from the Peace Corps and VISTA, the promotion of the Organization of the Little United Nations Assembly; the formation of a study and travel abroad interest group; and the support of the Mexican Work Project in co-operation with the Conference of Inter-American Student Affairs. By participating in this program, Wesleyan students may earn four hours of credit in sociology.

Home Ec Members Attend Conventions

Home Economics Club, an organization for any student interested in the future and the home, has many and varied activities. The highspot of the monthly meetings were the guest speakers, who discussed all aspects of home economics and the many career opportunities in this field. Some of this year's programs have included Becky Bruhn who spoke on new trends in fashion, Carl Carter from Roland's who designed creative Christmas decorations, and a representative from the Flamingo Beauty School who talked about good grooming. Looking into the future, space-age foods were another topic of discussion. President Julie Raber and other club members attended Home Economics Association conventions in Springfield and Chicago. Money-making projects for the year included a cook book sale and a bake sale.

Interlanguage Club Comprehends

Combining fun with learning, the Interlanguage Club grew in membership and new experiences in its second year at Wesleyan. Students of Spanish, French, German, and Greek, and others merely interested in the customs, history, and literature of these cultures participated in skits, panel discussions, and parties. By dividing the monthly programs among the different languages, each group had the opportunity to broaden its international understanding. For the opening meeting, a panel of IWU students related their impressions of Europe, gained from a summer's travel on the continent. Another meeting, of a similar nature, consisted of a talk given by Barb Hope and Molly Erdman on their reactions to their previous year's study in Germany. All got together at Christmas for a real international party.

Black Book Encourages Creativity

The Black Book, Wesleyan's literary magazine is now in its eleventh year of publication. Under the supervision of their faculty advisor, Mr. Meyers, co-editors Linda Bates and Richard Spilman met informally with their staff in their office which is located next door to the coffee house. All students on campus are encouraged to submit original stories, poetry, and art work. A writer's competition proved helpful in gaining quality material this year. A fifteen dollar prize was awarded to Daryl Junk for his poem, "All Color." Daryl and Steve Anderson were co-winners of the prose competition with their selections, "The Bug" and "The Bystander" respectively.

Episcopoi-Chi Rho Aid Spiritual Growth

Wesleyan affords its students many opportunities for pursuing their interests and Episcopoi is one of these opportunities. It is an organization designed for those men interested in religious careers or merely interested in the relationship between religion and their lives. Episcopoi does not function as a service organization, but as a Christian fellowship. Meeting once a week, the members exchange thoughts with Chapel speakers, seminary representatives, and members of Wesleyan's faculty. Through these activities, men of Episcopoi attain expression and fellowship.

Chi Rho is in a sense the female counterpart of Episcopoi. Although it is a different organization, it is very similar in that it is concerned with current religious trends. The purposes and activities of the two are alike, and exchanges between the two groups are held several times during the year. Activities included talk-back sessions with chapel speakers and faculty, service projects such as a Halloween party given at the Lucy Morgan Children's Home, and weekly meetings of presentation of ideas and discussion. Chi Rho women are bound in service and thought.

MSM Worships

Serving as a stimulus for students of all denominations, the Methodist Student Movement combined a program of campus and community service. Among their year's programs were two discussions on Viet Nam, a jazz meditation entitled "Loneliness," and a modern philosophy presentation. Under the direction of the Service Committee, MSM members established tutoring and recreation programs at various children's homes in the area.

Other activities during the year included publishing of the MSM Messenger; forming cell and political action groups; and sponsoring deputation teams which presented programs to church groups throughout Central Illinois. One of the deputation teams, the Wesleyan Players, presented the one-act play, "The Thief and the Hangman."

After investigating the University Christian Movement, MSM members elected to join the organization. The UCM will replace MSM and other denominational groups and be "open to all. . . ."

Black Book Encourages Creativity

The Black Book, Wesleyan's literary magazine is now in its eleventh year of publication. Under the supervision of their faculty advisor, Mr. Meyers, co-editors Linda Bates and Richard Spilman met informally with their staff in their office which is located next door to the coffee house. All students on campus are encouraged to submit original stories, poetry, and art work. A writer's competition proved helpful in gaining quality material this year. A fifteen dollar prize was awarded to Daryl Junk for his poem, "All Color." Daryl and Steve Anderson were co-winners of the prose competition with their selections, "The Bug" and "The Bystander" respectively.

Members of the Black Book staff edit contributions.

"I, Larry Copes, am a photographer . . . "

Oh, the woes of an editor . . . Beth Glosser and assistant Jim Dorsey know well.

"How does a managing editor manage? Manage to finish this paper in seven minutes?" ponders Jan Peterson.

Argus Publishes

In their new office, the typewriters, copy paper, old newspapers and editors have more room to perform their weekly task of publishing the paper.

The Argus staff began the year with a two-day workshop which helped initiate new members and shape up the old. The "social" events of the staff included Wednesday night snacks and two banquets. The staff was well rewarded for its time and effort when the Argus won the Karen Walsh Memorial Award for the best small college paper at the Annual McMurray College Newspaper Conference.

Appearing weekly were editorials reflecting the editorial staff's views on various campus issues, the Echo Chamber —commentary by student and faculty members on topics of their choice, and the Gadfly—an opinionated column airing an anonymous student's views about Wesleyan.

"This is a galley, Jim," explains Bob Sweet.

When the books arrive, everyone is pressed into service, even the photographers.

Wesleyana--Finished!!!

As the theme of this year's Wesleyana indicates, 1967 was a year of growth and change for all phases of campus life. In order to record this spirit of vitality and mobility, the Wesleyana, itself experienced several changes. Foremost among these was the utilization of color as well as underwater photography for the first time.

During the course of the year, even the lives of the staff were changed. They developed patience as they waited weeks for their new office and months for their new phone. But most all they developed an intense desire for sleep—the result of frantic deadlines and seemingly endless two o'clocks.

In an age of growth and change, the Wesleyana has preserved the spirit of Wesleyan 1967.

When Beth and Bill finish this problem there will be many others.

Orchesis Interprets

For interested students, Orchesis offers an opportunity for creativity and self-expression in the field of modern dance. Auditions were held each semester, with membership determined on the basis of agility and creative ability.

At intervals throughout the year, the group presented four chapel programs, among these were "An Anthem in Dance" performed at the special Thanksgiving service, and an original version of Psalm 31 interpreted by Gail Burnett and Sharon Friedrick.

During the Fine Arts Festival, Orchesis members participated in the Contemporary Music Symposium and the Terrapin show. The year's activities were conducted under the supervision of Mrs. Jack Boeh.

Terrapins Promote Aquatic Art

Terrapins is an organization which gives Wesleyan coeds a chance to demonstrate their aquatic skill. In September, a number of practice sessions were held, after which members were selected on the basis of their ability to perform basic swimming skills.

As part of IWU's Fine Arts Festival in March, Terrapin Club's annual water show, "A Glory Shared," was presented. The performance consisted of thirteen numbers, including a special solo by Marty Spaulding. Program narration was provided by Jim Sutorius, and the entire show was coordinated by their sponsor Miss June Schultz.

WRA Competes

Promoting fellowship and good sportsmanship is the purpose of the Women's Recreation Association. It organized and assisted in a recreational intramural and extramural program, setting up rules and providing proper supervision and facilities. Intramural tournaments were held in all sports, while only basketball, volleyball and golf were offered in extramurals.

In addition, the association sponsored ski trips and Co-Rec Nights. Co-Rec Night was held once each month so that both men and women could participate in various sports. Also included in WRA were Orchesis, Terrapin Club and Outing Club.

JoAnn Gargano volleys for serve in a WRA intramural volleyball contest.

While on campus Malcolm Boyd held provocative discussions in the Phoenix.

Terry Ledford served ably as coffeehouse manager this year.

Phoenix Provides Atmosphere

Wesleyan's own coffeehouse provided IWU students with an outlet for creativity and discussion. Again this year the students, themselves, carried on this project. It continued to provide a place for talk and relaxation, as well as serving as an informal classroom during the week. On the weekends the coffeehouse assumed the air of a nightclub, providing popular forms of entertainment such as folk singing, dramatic presentations, and comic monologues. Offering a wide variety of teas, coffees, soft drinks, and the Ruthenberger, as well as its own special atmosphere, the Phoenix continued to be a unique aspect of Wesleyan's campus life. Under the management of Terry Ledford, the Phoenix continued to provide an outlet for creative activity.

ATHLETICS

Coach Horenberger and President Bertholf admire the certificate from the NAIA.

NAIA Elects Hornenberger

In March, the executive secretary of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics announced that Coach Jack Horenberger had been elected to the NAIA Basketball Hall of Fame for his outstanding achievements as coach. He received his award at the NAIA-Hillyard Hall of Fame luncheon at the Hotel Muehlebach in Kansas City, Missouri.

Coach Horenberger first came to Wesleyan in 1942 as basketball and baseball coach. During his twenty-three years of service before his retirement as basketball coach in 1965, his teams won or shared the CCI title seven times including five of his last six seasons. He was elected NAIA District Basketball Coach of the Year three times and served as president of the conference twice. In 1947, he was appointed Athletic Director for the university, a capacity in which he continues to serve. He also continues to act as the coach for Wesleyan's baseball team.

Fire Up!

Under the leadership of captain Trudy Rippe, Illinois Wesleyan's cheerleading squad participated in a full schedule of games and special events this year. During Homecoming they participated in the pep rally, the parade and the game. On Dad's Day they provided the entertainment at the annual barbeque. The cheerleaders also assisted on MYF Day and planned various pep rallies. During the winter school spirit was encouraged at the basketball games. A minitrampoline added variety to the cheers and the squad hopes to make increased use of it next year. This year they experimented with having just six of the ten members of the squad cheer at basketball games. Concluding the successful year awards were presented at the Athletic Banquet.

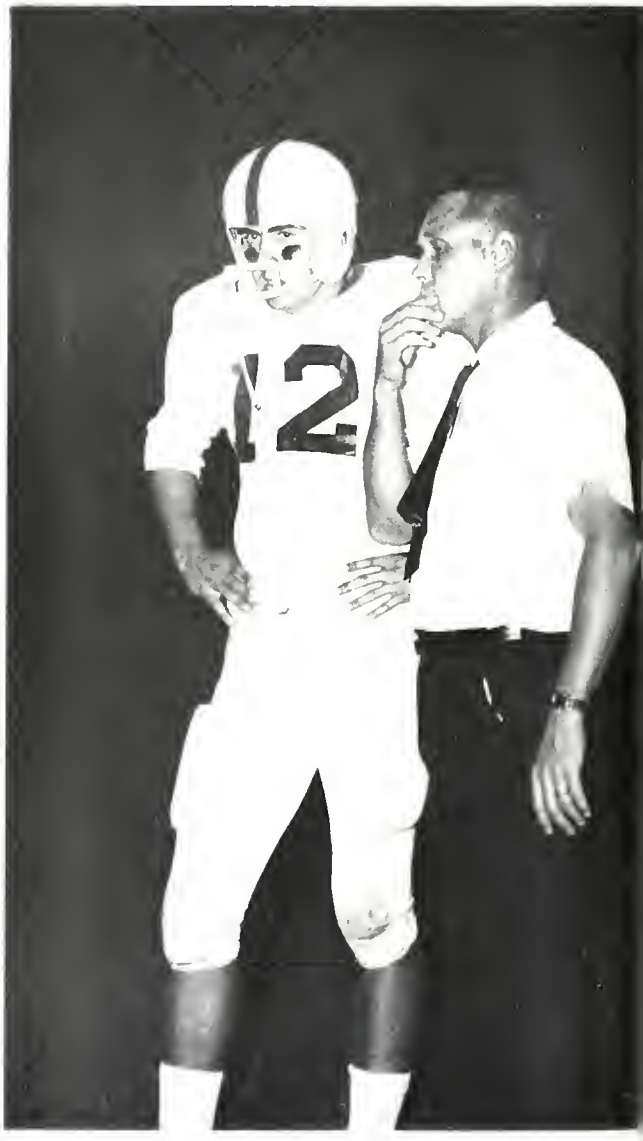
The Big Green stampede back onto the gridiron following a half-time pep talk.

Co-captain Steve Laub and Coach Don Larson discuss game strategy.



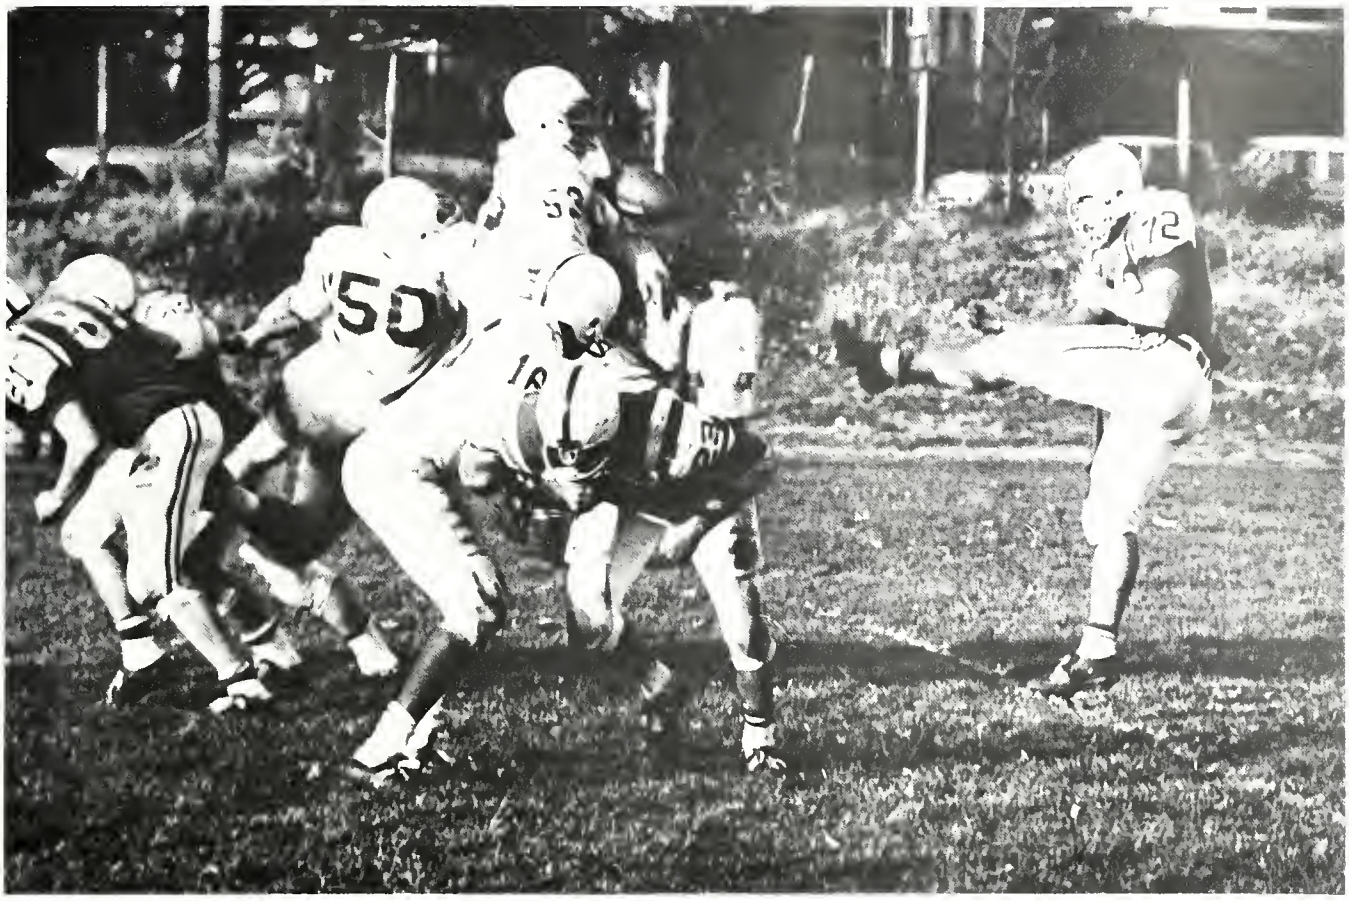
Football Provides Fall Excitement

The Titans finished a fine season on the gridiron by tying for second place in the CCI with Carthage and North Central (while Augustana won its first conference championship). The season provided several high points for the team and fans.

Probably the biggest victory for the Big Green was the 14-7 win over the Augustana Vikings, the conference leaders. The final game of the season against a fired up Millikin team provided more excitement. For the second year in a row, the Titans rolled over the Big Blue, this year, 42-7.

Steve Laub selected as the CCI's Most Valuable Player, certainly was just that as he set nine CCI records and finished his playing career for IWU with 211 completed passes, 37 for touchdowns. Bruce Daydif, who caught many of Laub's passes, set three records and was also selected to the all conference CCI team.

Phil Ballard, Kent Stromberg, and Mike Hymbaugh NAIA District 20 picks with Laub and Daydif, played big parts in the defensive and offensive attack of the team. Joe Barth and Bill Zora, who intercepted three passes, were two other mainstays behind IWU's defense; while Jim Carkhuff led the offensive team in rushing with 182 yards in 143 carries.



Kent Stromberg, with the aid of Jeff Beaumont and Skip Gilbert, block a kick, putting the Titans in a good field position.

Four New Starters and Laub=Title

At the outset of this season coach Dennis Bridges faced the sophomore jinx when his cagers opened their season against Wayne State. Last season Bridges' charges compiled a 21-10 record, won the CCI race with a 10-2 record and reached the quarter-finals of the NAIA tournament in Kansas City.

Steve Laub, captain of this year's squad, was the only starter returning from last year. Other lettermen returning from last year's squad were Dennis Kagel, Bob Scranton, Don Davidson, Bill Patterson and Harry Bohn.

The team returned from their Christmas holiday trip with a 6 win 5 loss record to move into the conference race. In the St. Ambrose Holiday Tournament the Big Green's first game was against a powerful Lincoln University from Jefferson City, Missouri. The powerful Tigers of Lincoln rolled over the Titans 122-84; the following night the Tigers won the tournament, defeating St. Ambrose as they scored 115 points. In the contest for third place the Green defeated St. Mary's of Winona, Minnesota in a 81-80 victory. Bill Patterson led the Titans in the tourney by scoring 46 points, 27 against St. Mary's. Patterson was also voted to the all-tournament team for his fine outside shooting performance.

Scranton was the only one up for this rebound as he returns it through the hoop for two points.

Millikin handed the Titans their first CCI loss, 74-67 on the Big Blue's home court. The following night the Big Green demolished the Pioneers from Carroll 131-77 in a record-breaking performance for the Fred Young Fieldhouse. The previous record was 113 set last year against Carroll. Steve Laub, who joined four new regulars and led the Titans to their fourth successive College Conference of Illinois basketball title, was voted the squad's Most Valuable Player. Dennis Kagel, sophomore forward and only returning starter to next year's team, was elected captain for the 1967-68 season.

Reviewing the season during which the Titans fashioned a 15-11 record and a 10-2 CCI mark, Bridges said he couldn't have been more satisfied with a team that had four new starters.

Seniors Bill Patterson and Steve Laub, the Titans guard duo, were selected to the CCI all-star team. Patterson was fifth in conference scoring with a 20.3 average and Laub finished seventh, averaging 17.3 points per game. Dennis Kagel of the Titans landed one of the six berths on the second team. The season ended with Patterson setting an individual scoring record for Wesleyan for total points amassed during a season.

Laub chalks up a score, but ISU won this game by two points in overtime.

Wrestlers Show Promise

Coach Bob Keck's Titan grapplers concluded the 1966-67 season with a sixth place finish in the CCI championships at Carthage College. Augustana gained its fifth straight title as they captured a 117-58 victory over the runner-up Carthage team, with IWU scoring only 22 points.

The Titans' Jeff Beaumont was selected by his teammates as the Most Valuable Wrestler and elected co-captain along with Dennis Grottola for the 1967-68 season. Beaumont's impressive 17-2-1 record led the squad through their 3-3 dual-meet season which concluded with seven letters being presented. Jim Boisclair received the Most Improved Wrestler award.

Swimmers Gain Experience

Nine men, including two lettermen, opened the Titan's swimming season this year. Heading the squad was letterman Bob Bieket, the captain of this year's team who competed in the freestyle and backstroke. Bob Anderson the only other letterman on the team, and Joe Barth competed in the diving event. Marty Spaulding, the best diver in the history of Wesleyan, assisted Coach Don Larson with this season's tankers. Steve Beich, a junior transfer from the University of Illinois, junior Joe Barth and freshman Kerry Shull swam in the 200 yard freestyle and sprints. Freshman Mike O'Brien swam the individual medley and the backstroke, while freshman Dick Roots was entered in the breaststroke event. Sophomore Mike Larson and freshman John Scott competed in the distance freestyle.

Due to lack of depth and the inelegibility of three key swimmers at the beginning of the second semester the team fell short of the expectations of Coach Larson. The most consistant point scorer throughout the season was Anderson, and Beich for the first half but lost second semester due to ineligibility.

For the first time in 18 years North Central did not win the CCI swimming championship, won this year by Augustana, Central managed only a third place with Wesleyan fourth. The staggering problem lack of depth, made the difference since only five swimmers were able to make the trip, with some Titan swimmers having to compete in as many as four different events.

Conference Championship Decided in Last Game

Veteran Wesleyana baseball coach Jack Horenberger's charges slugged their way to a second place finish in the 1966 CCI baseball race. The Titans compiled a team batting average of .297 while winning sixteen games and losing only eleven.

Leading hitter on the squad was outfielder Harry Bohm, captain of this year's team. Bohm's .386 average led a parade of six starters who hit over .300.

On the mound two pitchers came to the forefront to give the Titans a winning starting combination. Right hander Bill Zora and southpaw Bob Jensen compiled a record of seven wins and one loss. Gary Nickols and Don Davidson amassed forty-four innings of relief work between them for a three-two record.

The Titans will be in a strong position to bid for the 1967 CCI baseball crown with thirteen returning lettermen. Back are the top four pitchers from last year's squad and nine lettermen around the field.

Netters Have Disappointing Season

The Titan netters, in a disappointing 0-10 season, are looking to next year for experienced men. In the CCI tournament, held at North Central, our netters met defeat at every turn, finishing last and scoring no points. Augustana won the championship with 17 points.

After the season began with losses to both Bradley and North Central, the squad seemed unable to muster a winning combination. Cold weather and wind proved uncompromising to the young squad, composed of three sophomores, two juniors and a senior. This year four lettermen are returning, with two sophomores moving up to the fifth and sixth positions.

Golfers Falter in Conference Affair

Hard hit by graduation the Titan golf team will be pressed to compile a winning record during the 1967 season. Gone from last year's squad which placed sixth in the conference meet are lettermen Steve Riley, Byron Tucci, and Dave McMinn. Only lettermen Joe Barth, John Dew, and Jon Yarger are returning. In last year's conference meet Riley, defending CCI Medalist, could not compete and the squad suffered from his absence. In the conference meet McMinn led the Titans with a score of 168, followed by Barth with a 169, and Dew and Yarger with 172's.

Thinclads Have A Disappointing Season

With six lettermen returning from last year's track squad Titan track coach Bob Keck is looking to a better season in 1967 than last when his harriers finished last in the CCI meet at Millikin. The Titans, lacking depth, took a first in only one event and placed in two others for a mere 7 points. North Central won the meet with 69 points.

Bob Crites won the high jump with a leap of 6' 1¾". Durrie Monsma and Mike Coates were the only other Titans to score points. Monsma finished 5th in the 2 mile and Coates placed 5th in the intermediate hurdles.

All three of the Titan mainstays will be back in addition to lettermen Eric Coates, Ron Augspurger, and John Leupold.

Ray Eliot was the featured speaker at the annual athletic banquet.

Being busy athletes, the lettermen asked non-lettermen Greg Schiffbauer and Jeffrey Messmore to pose with "W" Club members Bill Schell, George Lowe, and Harold Graff.

"W" Club Substitutes

"W" Club has the distinction of being the most loosely structured organization on Wesleyan's campus. It had no officers, and held no formal meetings. Composed of all Wesleyan men who had earned letters through participation in intercollegiate competition, or for serving in a managerial capacity, the main activity of the organization was the annual banquet in the spring. At this time awards were presented to the most valuable player and the most improved player in the different sports.

CLASSES

Class Leaders

Although a lack of funds hindered the freshmen in carrying out any projects first semester, the president, John Hale planned several activities for second semester.

President of the sophomore class, Jim Brown organized several projects for the class including a work day for the Bloomington-Normal residents and the campus. Also a scholarship fund was started for class members from the class treasury.

Under the leadership of their president Klaus Kruetzer, the juniors had an active year. They sponsored the donkey basketball game and the Best Man on Campus.

Jim Herbison, president of the seniors, guided the class in preparation of their main concern, graduation. Activities such as the senior breakfast, the Honors Day convocation, and of course, commencement exercises were arranged.

This year, our year at Wesleyan has given us the opportunity to live, study, and grow together. Controversy has appeared and we have had the strength of character to meet it and to propose solutions. We have been asked to think—about ourselves, our purposes, our world. Perhaps we haven't found the answers we need; or more likely, perhaps we have been forced to answer questions we didn't know how to ask. But in the process, we have been enlarged and enriched to an extent that only we are aware of. However we have arrived at our answers, we know it has been a year of change, a year of growth—Wesleyan 1967.

Meet the only relaxed being in the office—and he had to take up smoking to do it.

Although many of the staff were aware of the presence of the editor, we found she could smile; especially after deadlines were met.

Only a yearbook staff can understand.

Editor Reminisces

As the book is completed and the last sleepless nights pass by, many memories of the year remain—the super ball, the turtle, the cups of coffee and the cherry sodas, the near hysteria, and of course the dedication of my staff.

Thank you seems very insufficient for all the hours of work that you gave me. I begged, asked, and ordered—you agreed, hesitated, and refused. We did not always agree, but it would have been dull if we had.

A special thanks goes to Wade, whose job as sports editor was vastly expanded, to all the photographers, John, Alex, Bill, and Rick, who spent untold nights in the dark room; to Ross, Gary, Donna, Jan, Pat, and Bruce, my editorial staff, who worked so diligently in so many different capacities; and the entire Alpha Gam house and especially my roommates for trying to understand, and for waiting up to let me in at 2:00 in the morning. Thank you also to Mr. Fred Brian, my advisor, who could always help solve my problems.

A book has to be published. For this I extend my appreciation to Walt Punke of Pantagraph Printing, Larry Wells of Associates Engraving, Bill Snell of S. K. Smith Company, and Mr. Smith of Howard Studio.

This year has been an unusual year—one which I will never forget. I have learned many things, both about the technical aspects of publishing a yearbook, and even more about working with people. Even now after experiencing the problems and headaches, I'm glad I did it.
